"The double hand rim wheelchair: a mobility-aid for people with hemiplegia (half-body paralysis) in developing countries" by J. A. Alphen and D.R. Arbib, 2002

This 24-page booklet provides drawings and guidelines for constructing the one-hand-drive wheelchair described in this newsletter. Written and illustrated by Jakko Alphen and Ruben Arbib, the two Dutch engineering students who volunteered at the PROJIMO Children's Wheelchair Shop in 2001, it provides sufficient detail for village wheelchair shops to construct the chair. This design is potentially a breakthrough for the thousands of people in poor countries who are paralyzed on one side -- from brain injury, cerebral palsy, or stroke -- and could move about independently in a wheelchair they can power and steer with only one hand.

The booklet is available from HealthWrights (Xerox copy) or as a CD Rom. US $15.00, shipping included; We hope to also have it up soon on our website.

"Wheelchairs for Children: Custom-Designed and Produced by the PROJIMO Skills Training and Work Program," a slide show, 2002.

This set of photographs, with explanatory notes in English, can now be viewed on our website (www.healthwrights.org). This is a modified version of the presentation given by Gabriel Zepeda at the Fourth International Congress on Disability, in Mexico City, March, 2002.

"Cuestionando la Solución: Las Políticas de Atención de Salud y Supervivencia Infantil," by David Werner and David Sanders. Spanish edition, 2001.

This excellent Spanish translation of "Questioning the Solution: The Politics of Primary Health Care and Child Survival" was painstakingly prepared by Dr. David Perez Soliz with a group of medical students and young doctors in Asturias, Spain.

US $18 plus postage. The full book is also freely accessible through our website: <http://www.healthwrights.org>
